

is the estimated Blood Alcohol Content (BAC) for your heaviest drinking occasion.

Did you know? Your BAC is an indication of how intoxicated you are, with a higher BAC corresponding with a greater likelihood of experiencing alcohol-related harm, especially when driving. This estimate takes into account your gender, weight, the number of standard drinks consumed and the number of hours over which you reported drinking this amount.

